Negation in Mixtec

Macaulay 1990

- Normally a split between realis (IPFV, PFV) and irrealis (POT/PURP, PROH) prefixes/clitics
- Irrealis: Ma (na, ña, a)
- Realis: tuu / koo

DIALECT	FORM(S)	SOURCE
Atatláhuca	ma-/tu-	Alexander 1980
Ayutla	tone change	Hills 1990
Coatzospan	ñá	Small 1990
Jamiltepec	ma/ñà	Johnson 1988

Ocotepec	mà/nduí, ñaá	Alexander 1988
Peñoles	ñà-díú, ñà-túú, túú, ñà	Daly 1973
San Juan Colorado	ña	Stark Campbell et al. 1986
San Miguel el Grande	ma-/tu-	Dyk and Stoudt 1965
Silacayoapan	a/ko	Shields 1988

NOTE: I have standardized the tone marking in this table to conform to my own. I have only given one source for Jamiltepec Mixtec, since the two available sources (Pensinger 1974 and Johnson 1988) provide the same data.

Negation in Mixtec

- Within realis, aspectual distinction
 - Imperfective vs. perfective (Bickford & Marlett 1998)

SÀ'ÁN SÀVĪ ÑÀ ÑUÙ XNÚVÍKÓ (MIXTEPEC MIXTEC)

Mixtec (Otomanguean) variety spoken in the municipality of Mixtepec (district of Juchitahuaca, Oaxaca, Mexico)

About 9,000 speakers (Eberhard et al. 2019)

One of the main branches of Mixtec (Josserand 1983)

Little information on this variety, mostly on morphophonology (Pike & Ibach 1976; Paster & Beam de Azcona 2004a,b; Paster 2010; Belmar et al. 2021; Salazar et al. 2022)

Negating the perfective

Sidenote: CNTF

- Form of the verb indicating that an action never took place (non-realized past)
 - Ní
- Used in counterfactuals: níkatù'un-ní nùû ‘had you warned me (but you didn’t)’
- Used when negating perfectives!
 - Ní always occurs when kuě is used to negate perfectives
 - Almost always with mà (perfective), but not with màa

Conclusions

- The distribution of the two main negators in Sà'án Sàví ñà Ñuù Xnúvíkó (Mixtepec Mixtec) is not solely dependent on the distinction realis vs. irrealis
- Epistemic and deontic modality play a role in the choice of negator
- Kuě is used as the Standard negation, in modally “unmarked” sentences
- Mà is used to express irrealis mood, as well as epistemic and deontic modalities
